Professional Profile

Aspiring creative writer with years of writing experience in screenwriting, short stories, and novel writing and a small amount of experience in game writing and journalism that I am currently pushing to learn more about. I also have a broad knowledge of and a great passion for various forms of entertainment media such as video games, music, and films.

Qualifications

- Creative Writing
- Electronics/Software/Media Knowledge
- Learning and growing from constructive criticism
- Helping people who have questions about various things such as electronics, gaming, creative writing, or even life advice and using the best of my abilities and knowledge to make sure they get the answers they are looking for and that they are satisfied.

Education

- June 2017 – Full Sail University, Winter Park, Florida, United States of America
- Diploma: High School Diploma (Duluth High School, Duluth, Georgia)
- I am currently getting my Bachelor's in Creative Writing at Full Sail University. Once I am finished I will push even harder so I can achieve my Master's in the same field.

Experience

Throughout my entire time in elementary, middle, and high school, I always had a passion for writing and it was something that I was always complimented on by my teachers. I gained experience in creative writing during my sophomore in high school when I started writing screenplays and short stories as a hobby, then I decided that I could possibly make a living out of my creations. I've written three screenplays that are all over 130 pages long and they took months of work to complete. I started writing a novel as well during my junior year of high school that I later used as a base for a writing project for one of my college courses. I'm currently in the final stages of planning for another novel, which has been in the planning stage for three years now. Due to my passion for writing, I decided to pursue an education with Full Sail University's online program for creative writing so I can learn more and grow and improve myself as a writer. Another skill of mine is helping people when they have questions about various forms of entertainment media, electronics, and software. Ever since I was young, electronic and entertainment media were always a huge passion of mine and my family members would always come to me first before asking a professional whenever they had a problem or question about a game, gaming system, computers, phones, computer software and operating systems.

Interests
